The pilot project sees the launch of a web site,
www.openinnovation.eskom.co.za
and the following challenges:

Challenge 1:

Seeking smart technologies that will reduce domestic energy consumption by 700 MW permanently.

Challenge 2:

Seeking technologies that will provide early detection of sagging, slipping, or fallen overhead conductors.

Challenge 3:

Seeking experts for peer review of modeling and methodologies that consider the social, environmental, and economic impact of power generation and delivery systems

Challenge 4:

Seeking technology to address improved water utilization and management for industrial processes.
